FOREWORD

Literature in any language is the mirror of the culture of a nation. It reflects the achievements of mankind in different stages and in different fields such as Fine Arts, Science, Technology etc. Tamil and Sanskrit Literatures, particularly, reflect the rich cultural heritage of India right from the period of the Vedas. Great poets like Kalidasa have written their poems reflecting different cultural aspects of people which they have observed during their life time. Such literary works of poets are therefore considered as one of the sources for deciding the cultural legacy of India. Hence, they are considered as the treasures of the country. Many Kavyas were written on palm leaves or bhurja leaves since the paper and printing were not known in those days.

Many libraries in the world have collected such works from individual and small institutions and are preserving them from decay. These libraries have published in detail the list of those works in Catalogue forms for the convenience of the researchers. Theodar Aufrecht has published a catalogue of these catalogues known as Catalogus Catalogorum. But it was decided by eminent scholars to improve the works of Aufrecht by adding many catalogues published from various Oriental manuscript libraries in india. The publishing of The New Catalogus Catalogorum was started in the Department of Sanskrit in the year 1935 under the ledership of Dr. C. Kunhan Raja. Due to the second world war the work was suspended for sometime and the First Volume was published in the year 1949. But from 1966 the work has been progressing steadily with the goal of covering all the letters, [अ to ह] in 20 volumes. This 20 volume project has received financial assitance from Rockiefeller Foundation for some time and from University Grants Commission for 10 years during the Third and Fourth Plan Period. The Government of Tamil Nadu has now taken over the financial commitment of completing the project. The present volume contains the maximum information and correlation of data from वि to ब्रह्म.

The University is very much grateful to the Government of Tamil Nadu for encouraging this important research project. I hope the publication of the remaining volumes would be continued as per schedule maintaining its high standard.

June 28, 2000 PON. KOTHANDARAMAN

PREFACE

The credit for starting the New Catalogus Catalogorum project goes to Prof. C. Kunhan Raja who was the First Professor of Sanskrit of the Madras University in 1927. At the Lahore Oriental Conference where he participated actively, he met Prof. A.C. Woolner, Vice-Chancellor of that University and discussed about the need for up-dating Theoder Aufrecht's Catalogus Catalogorum. Woolner wrote a letter to the Vice-Chancellor of the Madras University. A Committee with Mm. Prof. S. Kuppuswami Sastri as the Editor-in-chief and Dr. C. Kunhan Raja and P.P. Subrahmania Sastri as Members were entrusted to prepare a sample fasciculus for sending to scholars for their remarks. In 1938 the whole project was transferred to the Sanskrit Department with Prof. C. Kunhan Raja as the Editor with Dr. V. Raghavan to assist him along with Mr. E.P. Radhakrishnan. The first Volume dealing with अ was published in 1949 under Dr. Kunhan Raja's editorship. After Dr. Kunhan Raja's retirement Dr. Raghavan became the Editor; he revised the first volume and published the second volume in 1966. Then Dr. K. Kunjunni Raja joined the project as Associate Editor and Volumes III, IV and V were published in 1967, 1968 and 1969 respectively. After Raghavan's retirement Dr. K. Kunjunni Raja took charge as Editor and published Vols. VI, VII, VIII, IX and X in 1971, 1973, 1974, 1977 and 1978 respectively.

After the retirement of Dr. K. Kunjunni Raja Dr. N. Veezhinathan took charge as Editor and published volumes XI, XII and XIII, 1983, 1988 and 1991 respectively.

The plan followed in the New Catalogus Catalogorum is generally the same as that of Aufrecht's work with the inclusion of Buddhist, Jain, Pāli and Prakrit works and authors. Under each work a few references to, as far as possible the earliest and the latest editions are added if they are printed as also to any valuable point of textual criticism that could be made. Under author, besides his work, few important references such as his date, genealogy, etc., journal references regarding critical notes etc., are added. Works and authors known through citations are also incorporated.

Among the important items on which special editorial work had to be done in this volume are Bṛhajjātaka, Bṛhadāraṇyakopaniṣad, Bodhāyana, Baudhāyana, Brahmakaivarta and Brahmavaivartapurāṇas.

I am grateful to the government of Tamil Nadu for having taken over the financial commitment for the completion of the New Catalogus Catalogorum project.

My thanks are also due to Prof. Dr. Pon. Kothandaraman, Vice-Chancellor, university of Madras for his kind encouragement and for his readiness to contribute a Foreword to this volume on our request.

I am thankful to the teaching Staff-members of the Department and the Research Assistants of past and present for their co-operation and contribution in regard to the collection of material for this volume and assisting in bringing out this volume.

E.R. RAMA BAI

I have great pleasure in placing before the scholars of Indology this volume XIV of New Catalogus Catalogorum. It has a number of difficult and complicated entries; I have tried to make the entries in a systematic manner. The titles under बोधायन probably form parts of the gṛh and śr. sūtra texts ascribed to Bodhāyana. I hope that the discerning scholars will be able to get what they want without much difficulty.

I thank University authorieties, especially the Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Dr. Pon. Kothandaraman for not only supporting the project but also showing keen interest by forming an advisory committee to expedite the NCC work.

I express my heartfelt thanks to all our Staffs (both Teaching and Non-Teaching) for their kind co-operation in completion of this Volume. I especially thank Mrs. M. Visalakshi for her keen interest shown in includeing the additional matters carefully.

Last but not the least to Mr. M. S. Maniyavan, Elango Achukoodam for co-operating in Printing this volume neatly.

बुद्धघोष 5th Cent.; born in a village near Buddhagaya; mastered the Vedas and other branches of knowledge; was defeated by Revata, a Buddhist monk; while dwelling with Revata, he is said to have written Ñāṇodaya (in Pāli) (See Cullavagga xxxvii. 225) and the Atthasālinī and began to write Parittaṭṭhakathā, a concise C. on the Tripiṭakas. He is said to have visited Ceylon, studied Sinihalese commentaries on the Tripiṭakas at the Mahāvihāra under Saṅghapāla. Some do not subscribe to this view. See Louis Finot, La legende de Buddhaghoṣa, Paris, 1921, pp. 101-19. He then wrote the C.s on the Tripiṭakas. See Dict. of Pāli Proper names II. pp. 306-7; Wint., HIL. II. pp. 192 ff; B. C. Law, Hist of Pāli Lit. II. pp. 388-9, 399-481 and Life and work of Buddhaghoṣa, Cal. Ori. Ser. 9.

Ptd. (1) a collection of 84 verses ascribed to Bṛhaspati in treatises of Aparārka and others with German translation by Fuhrer, Leipzig, 1879. (2) about 711 verses on law with English translation by Julius Jolly, Minor Law Books SBE. 33, pp. 369-96. 1889. (3) reconstructed on the basis of quotations in works on dh. with an elaborate intro. and verse index by K. V. Rangaswami Aiyangar, GOS. 85. 1941.

बृहस्पतिस्मृति dh. a later metrical composition on dāna in about 80 verses based on Bṛhaspati's colloquy with Indra in the Mahābhārata, Anuśāsanaparva XCVIII. 52-100. Entire version in 70 verses is found in Padmapurāṇa, Uttarakhaṇḍa ch. 32. See Intro pp. 94-5 of the edn. of genuine Bṛhaspatismṛti noted above.

In the Baudhāyanadharmasūtra (II. 5. 27.) Kaṇva Bodhāyana, Āpastamba Sūtrakāra and Satyāṣāḍha Hiraṇyakeśin are mentioned From this Kaṇva (Kāṇva) Bodhāyana is not identical with Baudhāyana, a. of above mentioned works.

The Mysore Edn. of the Dharma Sūtras reads the Sūtras as that of Bodhāyana whereas the Ānandāśrama edn. reads as that of Baudhāyana. For further details see Kane, HDS. I. Revised Edn. pp. 38 ff.

Counted as the first among the Mahāpurāṇas; hence known also as Ādipurāṇa; interlocution Lomaharṣaṇa and the sages; from the absence of quotations from this Purāṇa in the works of early nibandha writers and the cotnents of the present purāṇa text agreeing with the contents of an Upapurāṇa of the same name as referred to by Narasimha Vājapeyin, this text is held as apocryphal; compiled between 10th and 12th century. See R. C. Hazra, Purāṇic Record on Hindu rites and customs, pp. 145-57.

The Gautamīmāhātmya in chs. 70-176 constitutes an independent work by itself describing the sacred places and temples. The Uttarakhaṇḍa in some mss. is said to be a description of the sacred river Balajā. See Wint. HIL. I. p. 535. For a brief account see Wilson, Viṣṇupurāṇa Intro. For an analysis of the work see JRAS. V. p. 65.

The Purāṇa is said to have three different layers. The Purāṇa is a conglomeration of chs. corresponding to those of Viṣṇupurāṇa, Mārkaṇḍeyapurāṇa, Śāmbapurāna, Vāyupurāṇa, Harivaṁśa and Mahābhārata (Anuśāsana; Śānti—parvans).

For a detailed study see Surabhi H. Trivedi, J. of Ori. Inst. M.S. Uni. Baroda XVIII. pp. 74-100.
